Pinterest is an online tool that allows you to bookmark images from around the internet and recommend them to your friends. Its concept is not very different from a regular blog or newsfeed, with the difference that the visual content is saved on the cloud and made available to the community and your followers. The features and options of Pinterest are numerous. In the following guide, we will show you the different features you can use to manage your pins and how to use them for better search results. The Pinterest

Dashboard To use Pinterest on the Web, you have to access it via your browser. This happens automatically when you visit the website. Pinterest comes with several boards or areas, the one you are currently logged in on being named “Me”, as seen below. Board names can be changed at any time and you can also create additional boards as long as you have enough storage space. If you hover over the board name, you will see a down arrow icon, which allows you to create, edit or delete the board. The blue “Pin It” button on the board is what will allow you to add a photo to it. As you can see, each pin is accompanied by information such as a title, description, description URL and tags, which can be changed. As stated above, clicking on the down arrow icon will allow you to move, edit or delete the board. You can do this in two different ways: click on the board name, and then on the “Edit board” button (seen in the picture above); or click on the Edit board button and then on the board name. When clicking on the edit board button, the board will be moved to the top. If you click on the “Delete board”
