The company apparently hasn't been lying: this week they finally started bringing Windows 10 to the Tizen SmartTV platform. To start with, it will support the Windows 10 kernel. Samsung's own kernel wasn't compatible with newer GPUs, for example, so this support allows them to use Windows 10's better drivers and better compatibility with modern GPUs. Samsung says that the updated TV interface will allow for larger apps, and brings in a few Windows-specific features as well. The company will also open up drivers for their own hardware, so that third-party developers can work with hardware and interact with the system from a developer's perspective. They also promise to bring all of the Windows 10 features to the smart TV platform, including the Windows apps ecosystem, Windows 10 task bar and an "immersive Windows Store experience," and an upgrade to the Windows 10 X86 architecture. All of this will happen in the coming weeks. As the smartphone market has cooled off recently, Samsung's TV business has been growing steadily. They're hoping Windows 10 will spur sales and bring new customers over.Enrichment of beta-N-acetylglucosaminidase activity in sheep serum by immobilized concanavalin A. The ability of

Posted: November 10, 2012bySimon Click here to go to the playlist, where you can view all the vid-os I've made of the Kodiak Pack. I can't sing, but I can make a darn good guitarchord, so I've put this pack together over a series of vid-os. As usual, I apologize for any bad singing, or for any poor camera work. I've also been very choosy with which songs from The Contenders were used. Hans Duijvestijn - Surrender Robin Lerner - Ah, Vervloekt Henrik Kildemoes - One Night in Paris Jian-Gang Yu - Back on the Same Path Somehow in the last five years, I got behind in sending stuff to NoM. As usual, I tried to organize it as best I could, trying to pick songs from various albums (and different time periods). Here's a list: I'm very pleased with how this pack turned out. I really like the tone, and the style of playing. That being said, there are some issues I've noticed, which is probably due to my lack of experience in the pack-drag-drama-comedy as well as my own particular playstyle. What issues have I noticed? - Accessibility issues: I'm sure I got half the counter-plants that hang from the beacons/watchtowers wrong. I've seen them both from front and back, so it couldn't be a problem with my view count or conditions. - Rumors: I know FFA games use this. I've tried to include an enemy that would spit out rumors when you captured it. Well, I put in 20 drumsets and got nothing. At the same time, there were a few traps that would spam telegraphed rumors. - Envoy Stone: I got the location wrong, and I really don't think you can designate an enabler somewhere else than the location. Maybe I'm wrong, but I've never gotten an enabler closer to your base away from the base after I dropped it. I've seen it around your spawn where I put it, but it never spawned on its own. I can't recall it spawning close to any of the beacons/troopers, either. It's better to just name the location itself. This can be conflicting with player names as
