Thanks so far. I have the 2013 model. The rear brake doesn't seem to want to hold, I haven't tried the front brakes yet. I have tried clean disks and bleeding. The following could be contributing to your issues with the rears: - You let it sit too long with condensation on the inner pads (like a few days) - You let it sit too long with water and other contaminants in the caliper - You let the rear tires sit too long without rotating them - You have a leaking caliper The following could be contributing to your issues with the rears: - You let it sit too long with condensation on the inner pads (like a few days) - You let it sit too long with water and other contaminants in the caliper - You let the rear
