"We constantly asked ourselves the question: 'How does FIFA translate the best football experiences possible to new console hardware?' and we've been able to deliver an enhanced FIFA experience for the new generation of console players," said John Chen, executive vice president and general manager, EA Sports. "The FIFA development team is committed to creating the best football games possible and we're thrilled to be bringing HyperMotion Technology to our new platform." That data is also collected from 22 real players as they play a complete high-intensity football match, simulating the complete spectrum of moves in a stadium setting, with the intent of replicating the real-world movement of players in a realistic manner. Additionally, in-depth, physics-driven AI software, which can be configured to target a player's movements and make key decisions in a football match, is employed to shape the in-game intelligence. "We were fortunate to find motion capture experts who could capture a significant amount of data. Some players might be used for multiple seasons and we're sure that they'll be pleased to be a part of the next generation of FIFA," commented Patrick Lussier, Executive Creative Director at EA Sports. "We're thrilled to be able to use real-life players in a completely new way and develop a new platform of play. We're as excited about it as our players are." "In 2016 we made data collection accessible to the fans for the first time ever with Playmaker 2," said Matthieu Patry, Senior Producer on FIFA. "Now that we have the data to work with, we know what we want to do and what the fan wants to see. Developing a platform that gives these fans what they want is why we worked so hard on developing our own engine. We're excited about how we will use this platform to support the best FIFA experience we can." "As a player, you can be sure that the new gameplay system will create the most realistic, diverse and exciting game-play you can experience on the PS4. The data we will use in HyperMotion technology is collected from 22 players playing a complete high-intensity football game in full motion capture suits. The data is then programmed into a high-precision AI, which replicates key on-ball decisions made in the real match,

Features Key:

- More authentic football – Create a team from 22 real-life players and play with them in the most authentic football match yet.
- Create your own authentic move – Create your own unique custom signature moves and try them out on all FUT modes to check which ones you like the most.
- Dimensions and weighting – With better graphics and physics, even the smallest of touches will feel more impactful thanks to the improved player model. You'll also experience weightless dives and other pivotal moments during the game.
- Improved gameplay quality – FIFA 22 introduces "HyperMotion Technology," which uses motion capture data collected from real-life players playing a complete, high-intensity football match in motion capture suits. The data collected from player movements, tackles, aerial duels and on-ball actions is used to power FIFA 22 gameplay.

Key gameplay features:

- The new and improved Player Career Mode is packed with more detail, more goals, more achievements and more ways to surpass your opponents; from playing for the big clubs to exploring the ranks to being in the leading form, with the new Ability Discoveries, new Skills, New Progression, and advanced stat tracking.
- FIFA 22 introduces a new set of gameplay features including CPU-controlled deflections, speed dribbles, new completions and powerful flicks, as well as several new pass types like diagonals, chip passes and bouncers.
- New dimensions and weighting not only improve the authenticity of the game, but also bring gamers closer to the real football pitch.
- FIFA 22 also features new VAR review options that give you the power to influence three key referee decisions. This includes the power to check the offside decision, decide an apparent goal or additional time-wasting assistant referee call.
- The new contextual clues feature has been improved to make it even easier to score, unlock new abilities and be the best player in the history of football. This comes in the form of Cheat Codes, Hidden Information or Sponsorship Tokens.
