Adobe Lightroom is a professional-grade software for photographers and Photoshop users. It provides a scalable open platform for organizing, editing, printing, and sharing photos with an impressive collection of features. Lightroom can also be used standalone as an all-in-one photo editor. While the older and professional version of Photoshop had more features than Elements, Lightroom simplifies the photo editing process. Lightroom is the software of choice for most professional photographers and is often a core application in a Photoshop workflow. An example of a Photoshop workflow would be to start with a RAW file and then apply noise reduction and exposure correction. This example would then be tweaked with layer masking and adjustments like Levels or Curves to bring out what was hidden. Photoshop then allows you to save the image as a file format of your choice. Lightroom is that first step in the process of editing a photo into a JPEG or TIFF. Lightroom enables you to work with photos directly on your computer by importing RAW files into a collection or a project with as little as one click. You can then select and quickly apply edits to the photo. This page highlights the features and benefits of Photoshop Elements and Lightroom. With Lightroom, you can also create versions of your pictures and videos in different sizes and resolutions. You can easily edit a photo without having to start a new file. Edit an image in one view and it will update in all the others you create. You can also easily share your work with other photographers, friends, coworkers, or clients. Features of Lightroom Lightroom comes with an impressive list of features and tools. It contains a complete set of tools for photographers, graphic designers, web designers, Discord emoji creators and meme-makers all using Photoshop. Adobe Lightroom allows you to import, view, organise, edit, organise, share, and print photos. Lightroom can edit RAW images that are stored in your PC. Q: How to add delay to Cordova JS by other JS code? I have a cordova project. I want to add a function, which will call a specific URL at a specified time using a timeout function. Is this possible? The code I tried: function setTimeout(a,b) { return setTimeout(a,b); } setTimeout(function(){ httpRequest().then(function(data){ console.log(data.data); //more code }) },10000); function httpRequest() { return $.get('', function(data) { console.log(data.data); //more code }); } I could not get any results. A: The problem is $.get(). It returns a promise. The.get() method is a shorthand for the more traditional.ajax() method, except that the latter returns a Promise object rather than a raw success/error call. Then in httpRequest() it has to be called with a then() function. Maybe like this: function setTimeout(a,b) { return setTimeout(a,b); } function httpRequest() { var def = setTimeout(function(){ return $.get('', function(data) { console.log(data.data); //more code }) },10000); return def.then(function(){ return console.log(data.data); }); } @model IdentityServer4.Quickstart.UI.Models.ExternalLoginListModel @{ Layout = "~/Views/Shared/_Layout.cshtml"; } @using IdentityServer4.Val
