Armajet is an arcade, twitch-based, side-scrolling multiplayer shooter from the mind of James Bates. There are no standing orders or outdated game design, it's just raw, unscripted and free-form. Levels consist of a series of timed and ever-changing obstacles which you must navigate through a series of hidey holes, behind the scenery, or worse yet, within the other players. You'll have a limited number of shots in your Armajet when you play, but you're free to adjust the game so that everyone can have as many as they want – more is better! Best of all, Armajet is incredibly accessible; you do not need to be an expert or possess any top-tier skills to play. It is extremely easy to pick up and play and can be enjoyed by any age, skill or gender. The only thing you really need is a mobile device. Armajet is set in a shared universe that the developer has called "The Pollen Pit". Players of Armajet are called Pilots and have skins, abilities and player names. The Pilots who have more interest in the game, log in more, and play more, are the Pilots who become more powerful. There are nine Pilots in The Pollen Pit at the moment (as of September 2014). Objective The primary objective in Armajet is to score as many points as you can within the three or five minute games. Gameplay Armajet is designed to be a fast paced multiplayer shooter where you go to battle against one or many opponents in order to rise through the ranks as a Pilot. In Armajet, you will encounter a series of traps, hidey holes, and hazards all of which you are free to break down and traverse at your own leisure. Pilots may be ranked by a variety of data, including average score, win percentage, player level and the number of games played. All are useful data to collect and all Pilots will receive an in-game notification when they are moved up or down in the rankings. Overall, the game is very easy to pick up and play. Each Pilot starts the game with a primary weapon and a 'special' ability – different weapons have different speed, damage, ammo, and are vulnerable to different effects. You are free to swap your weapon or special ability during the game at any time. You may use your special ability multiple times during a

A: The problem is that your header and footer are inside the tabbed div which means they will re-wrap on resize. One way to fix it is to put those divs outside the tabbed div. Details Demonstration Papers A lot has been written about automotive air brake systems, from the basics of how they work, to how they are controlled and regulated to how they are maintained. The purpose of demonstrating these basic principles is to put into words how a car's brakes work, and how to handle them safely and properly on the road. This written information is designed to be accessible for tech who are more hands on, and anyone who is trying to learn the basics of brake technology. A series of exercises developed to have students work through all the components and processes behind the brake system; what happens when the master cylinder fails and the brakes don't work

Biography Stanley was born in Boston, Massachusetts on September 20, 1876, the second daughter of artist and architect Sir Edward Burne-Jones. She was educated in France, Germany, and England, and in 1902, she and her family relocated to France, where she lived until her mother's death in 1920, when she moved back to the United States. She had a bad back due to the deaths of two sons from diphtheria in her childhood. Early life Olive Stanley was born to artist and architect Edward Burne-Jones and artist Caroline Mary Jones on September 20, 1876. While she was young, her family, which included her older sister Jessie Jones Burne-Jones, moved to France. She was educated in France, Germany, and England. Her mother died in 1920. Her parents began to live apart in 1903, when she was 9 years old. Her father married Dorothy Garrod in 1923. Career Olive Stanley worked as a painter, illustrator, muralist, and designer. She began her career as a painter, and later continued as a muralist, illustrator, and designer. As a painter, she worked in watercolor, oils, and tempera. She was strongly influenced by her father, who was a leading painter in the Pre-Raphaelite movement, and by her mother, who was heavily influenced by the work of Rembrandt. She also studied with American painter Fitz Henry Lane. Stanley did a portrait of her father, a painting of her mother, and paintings of portraits and landscapes. She also worked as a muralist. Stanley was strongly influenced by the work of William Morris, who she learned about from her brother, the artist and interior designer Hilary Stanley. She c9d1549cdd

– Chapter 34 Hanged Anya's stomach was a churning mass of uncertainty as she looked down at the black chains swinging pendulously in the darkness. The bone-crushing weight of the chains pulling her down left no room for doubt. She knew what was happening. Rowan and Elden had been arrested and it was her own fault. She had wanted to be a hero. She had wanted to rescue her love. She had wanted to rescue Elden and the Empire that Adar had so carefully built up. Now, Rowan was gone and their relationship was over. She was no longer be the Iron Keeper's spurned lover but instead the scapegoat. Anya was suddenly cold. She shivered. The wind was howling as if trying to blow her away. The small part of her that wasn't shaken by the realization that she was about to die for the smallest of crimes died miserably as she realized that nothingness couldn't compare to the horror that awaited her on the other side of death. "Y-You…" Anya stood in the cells outside the dungeon that was slowly growing warmer as the sun crept toward the horizon. "L-Let me go." Anya pleaded with the wrongdoers behind the mask. She pointed a shaking finger at one of them. "I-I had nothing to do with any of this. I didn't do anything wrong. I was just trying to help Elden…" Anya was rapidly losing herself. The cold was creeping inside her, chilling her from the heart to the soul. "It was an accident. It was all just an accident. Why are you doing this?" The masked villain stood back from the bars. She shot Anya a scowl as she walked up to the bars and looked back at Anya. "Because, as you just said, you should die for something that you didn't actually do. Now, stand back. We're going to break the little rat's neck. It's… was…" She stopped as she remembered that the only thing before her was the criminal who was about to stand by a bluff. She sighed. "Very well. You will be the first to go to the rope you soiled this kingdom with." She looked back at Anya one last time as she said in a low

In Meditation Safari, you are seated in a special environment in a quiet, serene place. It is your job to learn to communicate with the orbs that are floating around the place and to receive their messages. The game can be enjoyed in two modes, run and walk. The player can move around the environment in run mode to observe the orbs. In walk mode, the player can use the mouse to turn around the environment and move around. The player uses meditation scripts to interact with the orbs. This includes pointing at them with the mouse, grabbing them with the mouse, clicking them with the mouse, and moving them using the mouse. In addition, the player controls the orbs' size, shape, color, and number of orbs in the game. The player's score in the game is based on the amount of time they remain seated with their eyes closed when giving their attention to the orbs. The orbs' messages can be as follows: - Discharge of energy from the orbs: orbs pulse - Demand your attention: orbs demand attention - Wake up: orbs create a vibrating sound - Simulate emotional states: orbs emit colors and patterns according to the player's emotional states. The player can change the color, size, and volume of the orbs to communicate with them. - Lighten or darken the room: The size of the orbs can be controlled to lighten or darken the room. The orbs can be used to practice control over the mind. The orbs give the player the feeling of being in a virtual reality game. The player can create his or her own meditation scripts by entering their feelings. This is the player's first virtual reality game and is a game for all ages. In combination with meditation, the game can be an effective tool for changing the player's self-control and self-awareness. Description from Software Titles: Meditation Safari is a virtual reality game that creates a serene and silent environment where the player is guided by orbs floating around the area and can also control them with the mouse. The player's main purpose is to communicate with the orbs and change their behavior through grabbing them and giving them messages. The player can select the type of orbs: spheres, clouds, ribbons, and bombs. They will float and move about the place, and the player can interact with the orbs using meditation and other scripts. The player can also control the size, color, and number of orbs to add to the serene
