Fifa 22 Features Key:

- Introducing the next generation of Hitting Neurons, which are central to determining how you perform on the field. Your new neurology employs a smarter form of predictive close control that tracks player reaction times and body movements, to illuminate how players can perform and win important aerial duels and key chances. With this new combination of close control with authentic animation, the way the ball moves on and off the player's body and the way it's propelled through the air will be more clearly defined and easier to predict. Offering a more realistic sense of how each player controls the ball in the air.
 - Infusing a new level of realism into defensive positioning in FIFA by enabling AI defenders to advance up the pitch within 75m without engaging players. Players can now play on or around their own defensive line without directly restricting their movement.
 - New quick shot functionality, which allows players to make quick, well-timed shots to specific areas of the goal. Thanks to new shot physics, the speed and angle of the ball as well as the player's general initial movements, takes into consideration the distance of the final pass and timing on the shot. This allows players to better visualize what shot you are about to take and where it is going to land with realistic results.
 - New quick free kicks functionality, which allows users to kick and launch the ball faster and at different angles. You can turn, curve or even roll the ball over and through the wall. All these features make it easier for new and experienced users of FIFA to take perfect free kicks.
 - New passing with normal vision with new control scheme, including faster passes that take less time with more realistic physics. This new passing control scheme will also let players feel more connected with
