Q: Disable "Team Foundation Server options" in VS2012 I had VS2013 Premium, but now after installing Windows 10, I'm still using VS2012. Unfortunately, it seems that this version doesn't have the option in the context menu to disable "Team Foundation Server options". How can I disable it? I tried uninstalling and reinstalling it, but it didn't help. A: If you right click on your Solution you can see the "Click to toggle the menu item" item: Q: Auto-format a python dict as an array I've got a list of strings that have been extracted from a file; they might look like this: ['synthetic', 'hot', 'bar', 'no', 'mild', 'amazing', 'paella', 'dessert', 'delicious', 'elegant', 'grilled', 'flavors'] I'm trying to tidy this up a bit, as the data contains lines that weren't extracted from the file, and also the data in the original file has far more fields than the above. When there's more than one 'word' in the line I need to pull that out into a 2-D array. As it stands, if the line contains 'hot bar', it comes out as a 2-d array of [['hot', 'bar']]. I can do this by stripping out the elements that don't concern me ('synthetic', 'hot', 'bar', 'no', 'mild', 'amazing', 'paella', 'dessert', 'delicious', 'elegant', 'grilled', 'flavors'). The code I have so far is below. How can I make this a 2D array? for line in self.data: if 'synthetic' not in line: words.append(line.split()[0]) if 'hot' not in line: words.append(line.split()[0]) if 'bar' not in line: words.append(line.split()[0]) if 'no' not in line: words.append(line.split()[0]) tag: www.pugetsystems.com,2009-10-10:/questions/questions-9397-usb-programmable-dimmer-22-connector-digital-receiver-dimmable-controllerWatermark: USB Programmable Dimmer /22 Connector Digital Receiver / Dimmable Controller Today we get our first programmable USB dimmer from Puget Systems. The slim USB dimmer unit attaches to any 22- or 24-pin sub-panel with a splitter, such as a Maxim, Tripp Lite, AMP, and Harman Kardon of these dimmers. The sub-panel will need to be modified to accommodate the connections of the USB dimmer. The connections are the +5V rail, ground, signal, and power. What I like is that the USB dimmer is programmable. If you have multiple locations with visual control of the dimmer along with some motion sensors, this is a great way to automate your lighting with the push of a button. The unit itself does not look expensive but you will have to talk to the sales person to find out how much. There are a lot of questions such as are these dimmers user operated or are they pre-configured? What is the battery life? Are they quiet? Right now Puget Systems does not have a lot of background on their website so I don't know if they plan on adding any additional information to this product. I have found a lot of products that do not have websites and then you have a brick and mortar store that does not have a lot of information available. A lot of times you have to find a company on Google and do some research to see what they have available. I have been using the In-Wall dimmer since I was first getting into the lighting business. I have not seen anything this small and programmable and I have been using dimmers for quite a while now. I will let you know what I think about this product soon. 7 Answers I would like to know the amperage that this thing draws. Every little thing counts on a dimmer, especially if you are programming it to be controlled by a home automation system. There are nearly 400,000 people on these forums and the home automation community and this is the only thread about an upcoming product that I am aware of. If there are issues with the product prior to it being released, I
