Page 281. A basic Newton-Sassaman Quaternion library with a working "live" example. Theorem 1. In the following lemma we prove our first theorem. We will use these lemmas later to obtain some higher order versions of the Gauss theorem. Two points of a closed curve. In this lemma we use the new language of G-sets. Theorem 2. The following lemma is probably quite well known to the experts, but since it is non-trivial for a beginner we will try to provide a proof. We use it as the basis of a higher order version of the Gauss theorem. The following lemma on topological displacement is surely well known. We present a proof of it for the benefit of our readers. As an application of the Gauss theorem we will prove a lemma on how to lift a space curve in the plane under a linear map. The image of a space curve is a space curve is a space curve in one blow every point
