This is an appeal to the President of the Russian Federation, in which unknown people give advice to Putin regarding domestic and foreign policy. Basically, the authors of the appeal advise the President of Russia to be more decisive. For example, they believe that in order to improve the country's economy, it is necessary to introduce the death penalty. And also that the country needs radical changes in politics, economy, culture, education, medicine, and the social sphere.

Intact protein crystals are frequently used for screening protein crystallization conditions and for structure determination by X-ray diffraction analysis. The structural analysis of protein crystals is extremely sensitive to the hydration state of the proteins. Although 2H-hydration of proteins yields good resolution (i.e., several angstrom units) with conventional X-ray diffraction, the quality of the derived data is often weak, partly due to lattice disorder. We demonstrate that an isotope-labeling strategy can be used to improve the quality of X-ray diffraction data from conventional protein crystals. In particular, 1H-hydrated crystals of alpha-monodeuterated guinea pig immunoglobulin (Ig) G show an increase in the resolution of lattice structure by approximately 30% compared with that of conventionally 2H-hydrated crystals. A similar increase in the quality of the data is observed for deuterium-substituted crystals. Therefore, hydration with deuterium-17O can yield a better resolution for the lattice structure than that obtained by hydration with deuterium-1H.
